

'Best Practice': PR activities in relation to the topic of threatened researchers

Events are an effective means of raising public awareness of the topic of 'threatened researchers' and creating platforms for the exchange of ideas and experiences. The initial selection of successful events presented below aims to encourage interested universities and research institutions to develop their own formats. The Alexander von Humboldt Foundation would be delighted to hear about other events which it can add to this list.

Conferences

- 'Tangible and Intangible Heritage of Maaloula', University of Tübingen

Experts from Syria and Germany came together at this specialist conference at the University of Tübingen from 07/11/2016 to 09/11/2016. The topics covered included not only the destruction of the tangible and intangible heritage in Syria but also the possibilities of German and Arab cooperation for the reconstruction phase. The event was organised by Prof. Dr. Jens Scheiner and the Philipp Schwartz fellow Prof. Dr. Ammar Abdulrahman. Lecture series

- The 'DonnerstagsDiskurs' ('Thursday Discourse'), a joint project of the universities in Leipzig

The first 'DonnerstagsDiskurs', a podium discussion organised by the Leipzig universities, was held on 15/01/2015. The rectors at the Leipzig universities worked together to give birth to this lecture series on the latest social challenges in order to offer a stage for an open exchange of opinions and integrate the expertise of Leipzig academics into public debate. The topics covered have included freedom of expression, refugees, xenophobia, discrimination and street violence, among others. - 'World Science Café: Refugees in Science', Karlsruhe Institute of Technology

In this lecture series organised by the International Scholars & Welcome Office in cooperation with the Centre for Cultural and General Studies (ZAK) at the KIT, refugee and threatened researchers provide insights into their fields of research. On 30/11/2016, the Philipp Schwartz fellow Prof. Dr. Hussein Almohamad gave the opening lecture on 'Foreign Involvement in the Syrian Conflict: Status Quo and Prospects'. This was followed by further lectures, including one by the Philipp Schwartz fellow Prof. Dr. Ammar Abdulrahman entitled 'Syrian Cultural Heritage during the Crisis'. - Academy in Exile (Essen, Berlin)

The Institute of Turkish Studies at the University of Duisburg-Essen, the Essen-based Institute for Advance Study in the Humanities, KWI, and the Forum Transregionale Studien in Berlin have jointly founded the "Academy in Exile". The initiative is funded by the Volkswagen Foundation and is initially being established in two places (Berlin, Essen). The aim is to create an opportunity to help shape a scientific programme of critical Turkish Studies and provide a forum for consideration of academic freedom and science in exile. Every year, moreover, up to ten fellowships will be granted to researchers at risk or in exile.
