to the Programme Guidelines of the Philipp Schwartz Initiative

The Philipp Schwartz Initiative of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation Concept by the applicant institution for the creation of a sustainable support infrastructure for threatened researchers (2nd Call)

(Last updated: 01 July 2016)

Please describe your institution's concept for the creation of a sustainable support infrastructure for threatened researchers on no more than 3 pages (questions 1-6), using the questions below as a guideline.

- 1. Which structures and processes are foreseen by your institution for the reception and support of threatened researchers and their families?
- 2. Which concrete benefits will you offer to threatened researchers (and their families, as applicable), and how do you intend to address the specific challenges faced by this particular group?
- 3. Which processes will you implement within your institution, a) to publicise your commitment to threatened researchers and b) to identify those threatened academics whose cause the institution intends to champion?
- 4. How do you intend to negotiate issues relating to residence status in connection with threatened researchers and their families?
- 5. Which advisory services will your institution offer threatened researchers as regards their further professional development (either in academics or outside this field) after the Philipp Schwartz fellowship ends?
- 6. How will you use the lump sum of 12,000 EUR within your institution, and are discussions regarding possible internal contributions, the acquisition of third-party funding and the sustainability of the concept as a whole on the agenda?

- 7. Explain the planned implementation of your concepts using the example of the individual(s) you are recommending for potential funding (planned duration of the support, additional funding for bridging time periods/topping up, regulation of administrative questions such as residence status, health insurance, proof of financing and practical questions including accommodation and (advisory) support services for the period following the funding). 1 – 2 pages.
